Visiting the American Comic Book Heroes: The Battle of Good vs. Evil Exhibit

I am going to have fun at the American Comic Book Heroes: The Battle of Good vs. Evil exhibit at The Strong museum.

Things will be different from my last visit. This is to keep me and my adult healthy. Museum hosts will be wearing blue shirts and masks. I will wear a mask. The museum may smell different than I remember. I will smell the cleaning supplies that the workers are using to clean the museum. I might see workers cleaning while I am visiting the museum. I can help, too, by cleaning my hands and not touching my face.

On my way to American Comic Book Heroes: The Battle of Good vs. Evil, I will walk through an atrium with a large glass window. When I go inside, I will see comic books, toys, and big statues of superheroes. There will be other children playing in the exhibit with me. I will play at least six feet away from other children.
Playing will be different. I will leave lots of space between me and other children playing at the museum. There will be signs and spacers on the floor to help me do that. Some parts of each exhibit may be closed for a little while. I might feel disappointed or frustrated, but I can still have fun. There are many things I can play with on my own or with my family.

I can use my body to try to balance on a surf board in the Super Flight section. I can also pretend to fly like a superhero across the sky above Rochester, and I can have my picture taken. I will stay with my adult in this section until we are ready to leave together.

I cannot wait to see the American Comic Book Heroes exhibit. I am going to have a great time at the museum!

My adult can learn all about changes at the museum at museumofplay.org so we can learn more together.
